

New CITI Login & Enrollment Process

On May 15, Washington University is moving the CITI login process to a direct, WUSTL-key enabled sign on. Users will select courses within the CITI website rather than through AISystem.

How does this affect me?

- If you take training through the CITI program, you will login directly to CITI with your WUSTL key. The Washington University websites in which you access CITI (ONE, Learn@Work, hrpo.wustl.edu, research.wustl.edu) will no longer direct you through AIS to select your courses.
- All CITI course registration will be handled directly in the CITI website.

When is this happening?

- The switch to the new direct CITI login and enrollment process occurs on May 15, 2018 at 5pm. Any courses you take after that time will be registered for directly in CITI.

What resources are available?

- A quick guide will be available beginning May 15, outlining the new sign in and course enrollment process.
- After May 15, HRPO SWAT team members can answer questions about this change during their regularly scheduled office hours.
